Africa's learning landscape: the influence of tradition, change and innovation eLearning Africa 2013 Call for Proposals now open

ICWE | Berlin | 30 Oct 2012

With an estimated 10 African countries featuring among the world's fastest growing economies, Africa's status in the global economic landscape is set to change dramatically. Indeed, innovative new technologies combined with a pioneering spirit to improve lives are already changing the way Africans learn, work, play, think and imagine. But are the changes to education and skills development systems sustainable? How are African youth shaping their identities and navigating different learning spaces with these technologies? And are new technologies fundamentally disruptive to tradition? These are some of the key questions that will form the focus of eLearning Africa 2013, which takes place from 29th to 31st May at Namibia's Safari Conference Centre in Windhoek. The call for proposals is now open and will close on January 11th 2013.
